BARAD-DUR/ORTHANC 26, bimonthly magazine of postal Diplomacy, available (S/O) Jack L. Chalker, 5111 Liberty Heights Ave., Baltimore, Md. 21207, USA (Games B.C.E.XF); (ORTH) Ronald W. Bounds 649 N. Penn, Balto., Md. 21201, USA (Games A, J, M). Special combined issues 25¢. Regularly, each, $1.00, or trade. Affiliated with the Games Bureau, National Fantasy Fan Federation. An UNHOLY THREE Publication. Special First Anniversary combined issue, July 30, 1966.

ORTHANC

to be sent back by the 1st issue of the 1966 combined issue of 'Barad-Dur' and 'Orthanc' which will be sent out to all subscribers on or about July 30, 1966.

ORCSHOTS

This is the first anniversary issue of BARAD-DUR. It doesn't really seem like -- this impression heightened by the fact that none of the games begun a year ago are finished as yet, although if things continue as they have been our 2nd anniversary will have only two familiar faces -- XF and H, and maybe not even the latter.

BARAD-DUR was begun as the work of two persons -- Ron Bouda and myself. After 20 weeks of Ron coming 10 miles from the center of town out to my place to run the issue, though, we decided we'd better split in half. Thus was born ORTHANC. The two magazines have recombined for this issue only under the old format, as a birthday celebration. We've also arranged things in the proper alphabetical order for the last time for another year. If you want to know where "G" is -- wait a while.

Both magazines are affiliated with the N3F Games Bureau. As Diplomacy Division chief for the GB, I feel (particularly since I've been promising but not delivering one to Don Miller) that this is the place for a general Diplomacy Division report. Note & copy, Don Miller, please.

BARAD-DUR and ORTHANC are the only two N3F Games Bureau magazines. We would always welcome others, of course. We'd particularly like to see an N3F Bureau zine devoted to wild variants, but any and all Gamesmasters are welcome. OSGILIATH, the announced #3, has never seen print due to Jerry Jacks moving. He's mentioned nothing since about running it. Any volunteers?

GB Diplomacy magazines are basically independent publications. All we ask is a Gamesmaster to be a GB member, credit the GB in his magazine, and adhere to a standard rate policy, with all N3F gamesmasters agreeing on a hike, if any. Effective immediately, the GB Diplomacy magazine fees run as follows: REGULAR GAME: $4.00; REPLAY (another game by someone already playing in one GB -- not 'zine but GB -- game): $2.00. BARAD-DUR has an odd rate: add $1.00 if you want your copies air mail. ORTHANC does not follow that surcharge.

No GB magazine, however, has any standardized rules, rating charts, etc. Bouda and my rules even differ slightly. Neither of us believes standardization of rules would be good for the progress and evolution of the game.

The rates above also apply to variant games after XF.

The game numbering system is simple: GB (for games bureau) -1966- (year game starts) -G. The first GB game was Bouda's A; my B started the same time. OSGILIATH took game G but never appeared, so the games run A (Bouda), B, C, (me), D (Bouda), E, XF (me), H (Bouda). The next game would be "G" to fill in, then we'd continue with I, J, K, L, etc. The "X" before a letter doesn't disturb the lettering order; it simply signifies that the game is not a regular 7-Men Games Research game, but a variant.

The Games Bureau, I understand, gives credits toward subscriptions to other GB publications for games played in an N3F Diplomacy magazine.

There's very little else to say. G will, most likely, be a "straight" game; as a science fiction fan "I" must be experimental -- "XI."

JLC

In southern California plans have been drawn up for an International Diplomacy Federation. I categorically refuse to affiliate with it. Basically: (1) we are already affiliated with a Federation -- the National Fantasy Fan Federation. (2). An IDF offers no advantages, but it does add needless complication. No benefits are offered. One IDF proponent has suggested standardizing the rules -- a step I'd consider injurious and wouldn't follow anyway. Rating systems? To what end? In the end, I can only see paying out money for needless complication. We do all right as is, and we'll continue in just that way.

VIA AIR MAIL

This issue is again being sent 100% surface mail. Effective next issue we shall revert, and copies sent Air Mail prior to the strike will again be sent air mail. Best of luck to ye all!

Rome, October 15, 1908 (reuters) -- Pope Mufasta Today moved to the Papal residence in Canossa. Denouncing the French, he prophesied, "King Charles will come to Canossa."

Norway -- Sir Arthur Jermyn, Regent in exile here, today announced that he had sent word to the Kaliris that help was urgently needed.

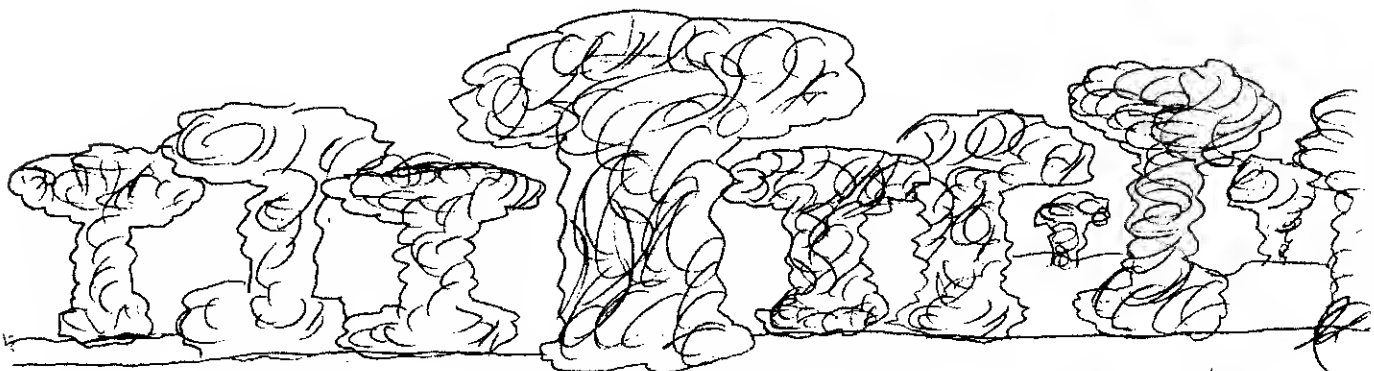

Constantinople, October 14, 1908 (Reuters) -- Sultan Jackel of the Ottomans today declared war on France. "After the French Napoleon Charles the Chicken asked us not to attack Tunis, he used the fleet there to stab us in the back!" The Sultan charged. "We declare this a Holy! The stolen Necronomicon in the Bibliotheque Nationale must be returned!" the Sultan concluded.

Norway -- The End is come; the very walls crumble about me. Where I go, I shall not ever know. I drift, Alone into the Alone.

St. Petersburg -- Because of the failure of the English Commander of the English units exiled in Norway to carry out the terms of the Anglo-Russian treaty this past Spring, the Russian forces in Scandinavia have been ordered to take punitive action against the English. We are sorry, King Mark, but a treaty is a treaty. If one side fails to live up to its obligations, then the other side is released from its obligations! Besides, we hear the English Fleet failed to sail as promised because of cowardice.--- and we have no stomach for allies who are cowards! The English record in this war has been certainly a sad one!

Norway -- Lord Chesterfield wishes to register a protest against the installation of a Kemal as Pope.

Spain -- Reports drifted in here today that hordes of gigantic white apes had been pouring from the caves of Gilbralter, to, seize and rend passers by, while screaming "Mi-Go! Mi-Go!"

"Well, sir, we exploded the bomb AT midnight, is more realistic. And it's easier for me. I am lazy, not a work-

Istanbul: Sultan Abdul M'Banid, reportedly plotting an attack on Russia, retired alone to his study in the Seraglio. Shortly thereafter screams of horror and hideous gibbering laughter were heard; when terrified attendants finally broke into the room, they found it empty of everything but a tattered copy of the book by the Sultan's cousin, Abdul Alhazred.

After the Sultan's disappearance, the party known as the "Young Turks" seized power and restored the Constitution of 1876.
The new Sultan, Mohammed V, agreed to govern by the Constitution.
Sultan Mohammed also reaffirmed Turkey's alliance with Russia.

King Harold II made a dramatic appearance in several clubs near Soho last night. This morning a spokesman for Buckingham Palace denied that Hotspur had sipped champagne from the slipper of the aunt of the French Ambassador. "The lady was wearing riding boots, don't y'know." When asked if the King had outwrestled the Turkish Ambassador, the response was "No comment." An unofficial count had Hotspur two, Turk one, and one even.

-- England, Germany, Austria -- where are you? Let's forget our differences and turn to face the barbarians advancing upon us from the East before we are all overrun. Let's join together in a new crusade against the infidel! Raise the banner of the Cross! Knight to QB3!!

Berlin, Dec 3, 1905 -- The kaiser made the following speech today from the top of the Brandenburg gate:

"My people! Germany is still fighting desperately for its life on two fronts. The English constantly press us from the North in spite of our true desire for peace with them. From the South, the Turks are testing our Russian borders in spite of our non-aggression overtures. Even France has shown herself to be at all trustworthy and even she betrayed us in Belgium, although probably because of the so-called "Mad Miller", the former foreign secretary that was assassinated last year. "Mad Miller" was called that because he was the son of a humble village miller. After wheedling a minor position in the Foreign office, he showed such skill at doctoring Diplomatic Notes, that he rapidly rose in power, finally having his predecessor assassinated so he could take over. Now, France is again at peace with us, and together we shall rid the North of the English Blight that has been rampant for the last four years."

A Deafening ovation from over 1,000,000 Berliners gathered to hear the speech followed, and the Kaiser was hailed as the saviour of his nation.

Passau, Bavaria, Dec 9, 1905

A man and woman, answering the description of the pretender Karl Franz and his wife, were observed to have crossed the border to Austria. We call on our friends there to capture these dangerous criminals and return them to German authorities. Descriptions: Karl Franz, of Carlsburg, age 29, 6' tall, 190 lbs, dark hair, blue eyes, bullet scars on both arms and legs, excellent swordsman and marksman, chronic drunk.

LORRY-DEVANT-LE-PONT, south of Metz (AP): The night is lurid with gunfire, as artillery further and further back is called into the battle on both sides. The Chevreux des Meaux has repulsed two attempts by the Bavarian IIIvbl and II battalions (Franconian) since the sun has set. The French remain in possession of the Lattinally farmhouse at the edge of the Bois de la Comte, the prey arm of the Bois de la Comte, and the feature known as "The Nose" to the Frenchmen of Pagny-sur-Moselle below on the other side of the Moselle River. The Nose is simply a bluff overlooking the valley and its northern companion, The Bottle, or Hill 7215, remains in German hands.

French patrols are now probing the Bois de Daumont to the southeast, and further reinforcements are reportedly on the way on both sides, the German Commandant of the IvaII Corps area (Metz) declaring that he will evict the French from their enroachments on German soil. At this very moment, Festung guns from Fort St. Privat are striking 650 years south of here in Mardient and the Bois de Mardient-et-Bouxieres-sous-Froidmont.

War may well be commencing on the European Continent at this very moment, the flaming spark that may turn the tinder-boxes of Europe into exploding fury.

HISTORICAL NOTE

DICK SCHULTZ: Now for some gripes. You positioned the dot in Kiel ever Hamburg (++)But we traced the original map for that!JLC++).The proper name for Caucasia is either Transcaucasia or Circassia, after the old generic name for the peoples and lands of the Novorossik-Baku Caucasuses. (++)Purists!JLC)).The proper Swedish term for the northern provinces is the Norjedalen, or that land beyond the Oslecarlia, and the Sodermanland. A portion was known as Jemtland, belonging to the Danish-Norwegian sovereign from sometime in the 1100s when they converted to Christianity. Then Christiana, the sovereign after Gustavus Adolphus, annexed the land outright. In 1658 Charles X annexed the entirety of the land you marked Osle. His new and short-lived province was Norwegian, Trendhjem, or Trondheim. And, of course, Christiana is merely the Swedish name for Oslo. And what you call Trondheim is known as the Altmark, the Finnish Altmark being a part of the same province. In elden days the Finnish Altmark was a part of the Swedish, not Finnish, provinces. It was only in 1808 when Alexander raped Sweden out of Finland that Alexander's mapmakers decreed the Altmark to be part of Finland and that was that as far as Alexander was concerned.

A better name for Riga might be either Livonia, or Courland, since at one time or another (depending on which Foudal Knight of the Sword held sway) the entire region was known as one or the other. (++)Here I disagree. Since Riga is a Russian home supply center, I followed precedent by taking the largest provincial port's name -- Riga. Re: Warsaw instead of Poland -- largest city.++)). Estonia never quite fell under the sway fully of any of the Teutonic Knights, since the Estonians were still practicing their own version of pagan Christianity until the Luthorans and Russians managed to work over the area pretty well, one after the other.

After the Swedes got through converting everyone away from their pagan idols, the Russians took over and converted everyone away from the Lutheran idols, with the result that most everyone got killed in the process except the Swedes, Lutherans, and Baltic Germans (who very handily believed in whatever was popular at the time -- and, besides, they held the most cannon.)

The region of northwestern Scotland was known more often as Caledonia than Clyde, but, then, that one's hardly your fault.

What you call Salkenia was known in yon elden times as Rumelia, and included both Phillipolisia or Eastern Rumelia (southeastern Bulgaria) and Albania on the Adriatic end. It became Macedonia after Bulgaria claimed it during & after the First Balkan War and Serbian and Grecian Macedonia after the Serbs and Greeks returned it to its historically rightful owners -- themselves....

The Bulgarian Communists still have a hint of the old "Three Seas" dream...the Black Sea, Aegean, and Adriatic, with ports on each. Lebenstraum, what many names thou goost under.... DICK SCHULTZ (++)Then Rumelia would conflict with Rumania -- the abbreviations are too close. Macedonia maybe, but Rumelia is practically impossible.++))
